

World Book Day

World Book Day is always a special day for us at Watermoor; a day where we can really get immersed in stories, poems and our favourite books!

We strive to make the day focused on reading for pleasure. We also aim to take pressure off parents and carers by avoiding requests for children to wear book-themed costly outfits which may not be used again.

However, we want to hear from you! Please complete this poll to let us know whether you think World Book Day 2026 should be:

- a 'dress up' day
- a choice of dressing up or pyjamas/non-uniform
- normal school uniform

Ted and his Time-Travelling Toilet

There are a few days left to visit this family-friendly trail at the Corinium Museum, inviting young adventurers to join Ted on his latest mission.

As you explore the museum galleries, hunt for clues and decide which Viking "facts" are true and which are false. A fun and interactive way to bring history to life, perfect for curious minds of all ages. Tickets are £2.50 each.

Free Books for Families

There are still plenty of books left in the foyer if you'd like to come and browse!

If you have a few unwanted children's books at home, you can check whether they are part of the AR library by entering the book title into this search engine:
